FACTS AND PARCIES. The shades of night were falling fast, As through the city streets there passed A youth, who tradged through mud and ra Crying with all his might and main, "Any E-s-g-s:" His looks were end, unserily full; His great hig bag was nearly full; And though his strength was failing fast, He cried with voice like trumpet blast, "Any R-a-g-a." No friend looked out with pitying eye, And biest him as he wandered by ; Without a blessing, cold and sore, He crisd aloud at every door, "Any R-a-g-s?" "Beware the watch," an old man said;
"He's on the corner, just ahead."
"Ill watchful be," the youth replied,
And lifting high his voice be cried,
"Any R-s-g-s." "Beware the watch-dog's awful bite!"
Beware the dangers of the night!"
And as he burried out of sight,
The youth replied, with all his might.
"Any B-a-g-a-" A traveler in the early morn, A being found, ragged and torn; There in the wet and mud he lay; His mouth was fixed; but seemed to say, "Any R-a-g-a!" Sweet sleep had stolen o'er his frame; Another "picker" had stolen his game; His hag, once full, stood open wide— A voice far in the depths replied, "Nary R-a-g."
